What do we do?

- We talk about violence. Most of our calls (chats) come from victims of violence (85%), also from relatives of victims, perpetrators (a few), authorities and officials when they need information of free places in shelters. We give consultation for various professionals in social and health care. Circa 85 % of callers are women, circa 12% men, and rest unknown.
- Our discussions last from few minutes till two hours. The most important thing for us is the encounter = the caller is taken seriously; she is heard and she has time to think and talk about her situation in peace. Most callers have experienced violence/rape/harassment quite recently, some many years a go without telling anyone about it. Our discussions are highly supporting. We aim to keep callers and their families safe, and give them hope.
- The feedback we get from callers is absolutely positive- the contents of calls is tough, but positive feedback is highly motivating for our counsellors. They can use all their experience and knowledge when helping callers.
