The role of assistance services

- ❑ What are assistance services?
- ❑ How can they help identify obstacles?

Not many Europeans are aware of assistance services

- 11% - European Consumer Centres
- 6% - Europe Direct
- 4% - Your Europe
- 3% - Citizens Signpost Service
- 2% - SOLVIT
- 69% - do not know any of the services

The role of assistance services

What we want to achieve:

- Better information
- Better access to fast assistance and real solutions
- Better enforcement of rights
- Listen, learn and make better policies

I. Better information: The new Your Europe portal

❑ 'One-stop shop' access to information on single market rights for citizens, consumers, and businesses

❑ Information also available via free-phone number 0800 6 7 8 9 10 11

The screenshot shows the 'Your Europe' portal for citizens. The header includes the European Commission logo and the text 'Your Europe'. Below the header, there is a navigation bar with 'European Commission > Your Europe > Citizens'. The main content area is titled 'Europe made easy' and 'Help and advice on your life, work and travel in the EU'. It features a grid of categories: Travel (Coming soon), Work (Passport, Jobseeker, Migrant worker, Cross-border worker, Other), Vehicles (Driving license, Insurance, Registration), Residence (Coming soon), Education (School, University, Traineeship, Researcher), Health (Unfrozen treatment, Planned treatment, Help from the chemist, Settling abroad), Family (Coming soon), and Buy & Sell (Shopping abroad, Online shopping, Cars, Personal finance, Entrepreneuria). There is also a 'Highlight' section with the text 'Information on health is now live. Find out when you can get medical treatments in another EU country, and what level of reimbursement to expect.' The footer shows 'Last update: 18/06/2010 | Contact | Print version | Top'.

The screenshot shows the 'Your Europe' portal for business. The header includes the European Commission logo and the text 'Your Europe'. Below the header, there is a navigation bar with 'European Commission > Your Europe > Business'. The main content area is titled 'Your Europe, your opportunity' and 'Practical guide to doing business in Europe'. It features a grid of categories: Starting (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead), Managing (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead, Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis), Expanding (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead, Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis), EU market (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead, Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis), Innovation (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead, Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis), Finance & Support (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead), Stopping (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead, Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis), and Responsible business (Memo enim isam, Aspernatur aut ead, Sed ut perspiciatis unde omnis). There is also a 'Highlight' section with the text 'Multilingual practical information and online government services for companies looking for business in another country. Provided jointly by the European Commission and national authorities.' The footer shows 'Print version | Sitemap | Search | Contact | Legal notice | En'.

I. Better information: The new Your Europe portal

Key innovations:

- User-centric: no jargon, practical info, honest presentation of the situation
- Single access point to specialized assistance
- National information
- Listening to users' feedback
- Innovative promotion

Innovation 1: user-centric

The screenshot shows a government website interface with a navigation bar at the top containing categories: Travel, Work, Vehicles, Residence, Education, Health, Family, and Buy & Sell. The 'Buy & Sell' section is active, displaying a sidebar with links like 'Shopping abroad', 'Online shopping', 'Cars', 'Personal finance', and 'Entrepreneurs'. The main content area is titled 'Shopping abroad' and 'VAT', detailing rules for paying VAT in the country where you shop and exceptions for cars. Three orange circles highlight specific user-centric features: 1) A circle around the 'VAT' section title and its sub-sections. 2) A circle around the 'Exception for cars' section, which includes a warning icon and text about VAT for new cars. 3) A circle around the 'This could be you' section, which features a photo of a woman and a 'Problem/Solution' format. A 'Frequently Asked Questions' section is also visible, with a question about VAT on products in another EU country. A 'Still need help?' section at the bottom offers links for fast legal advice, public authority help, and contact with the European consumer centre. A search bar and social media icons are located at the top right.

Buy & Sell

Shopping abroad

VAT

Pay VAT in the country where you shop

As a private individual shopping in the EU, you should only pay VAT once, in the country where you make your purchase.

You can bring home goods bought in another EU country, without stopping at the border, making a customs declaration. The only condition is that your purchases must be for your own or your family's personal use, and not intended for resale.

Exception for cars

Warning: For new cars bought in another EU country, VAT is paid in the country where you register your car, that is, in your country of residence.

A 'new car' means one which has travelled less than 6 000 km, or is less than six months old. This VAT scheme also applies to other new means of transport such as boats and aircraft.

For used cars and other second-hand vehicles bought from a private person, the VAT will already have been paid by the original buyer in the country of purchase.

Warning: You should therefore not pay VAT for a used car bought from a private person, either in the country where you buy it, or the country where you register it.

A 'used car' means one which is more than six months old and has travelled more than 6 000 km.

For new and used cars, you will still need to pay the local fee for registering your car in your country of residence.

During a trip to Poland, Agneta found the model of washing machine she wanted at a price far lower than what she would have to pay for it at home in the United Kingdom. However, she was worried that she would have to declare it at customs and end up paying VAT again.

Innovation 2: Single access point to assistance services

The screenshot displays a website interface with a navigation bar at the top containing tabs for Travel, Work, Vehicles, Residence, Education, Health, Family, and Buy & Sell. The 'Education' tab is selected. On the left, a sidebar menu includes 'Education' (with sub-items: School, University, Traineeships), 'Researchers' (with sub-items: Grants and research positions, Residence rights, Taxation, Health care), 'National contacts', and 'FAQs'. The main content area is titled 'Researchers' and includes sections for 'Taxation', 'Tax exemption', 'Paying tax as a post-doc', and 'Tax situation by country'. A search bar is visible below the 'Tax situation by country' section. On the right, there are several utility boxes: 'Still need help?' (circled in orange), 'Frequently Asked' (with a link to 'Will I lose my maintenance grant from my government if I go abroad to study?'), 'This could be you' (with a photo of a woman and text about a Portuguese researcher in Greece), and 'Are you having problems...'. A second 'Still need help?' box (circled in orange) is located at the bottom left of the main content area, containing links for 'Find a research job', 'Get fast, free legal advice', and 'Solve problems with a public body'.

Researchers

Taxation

Tax exemption

Usually, if you move to another country to work, you'll also have to pay tax there.

But researchers in the EU can sometimes simply continue paying tax in their home country.

This is often the case if you are a PhD student, or if your income comes from a public body in your home country. In that case, your income is covered by the bilateral tax agreements between your home country and your new country of residence.

These seek to avoid double taxation, but there is likely to be paperwork to complete before you move.

Paying tax as a post-doc

Post-doctoral researchers will usually have to pay tax in their country of residence, either as employees of a university/research institution there, or as self-employed workers conducting research in partnership with such institutions.

Tax situation by country

As the terms of double tax agreements vary widely, please check the situation in the country you intend to move to:

A Portuguese researcher was working on her doctoral thesis in Greece. Since she was eligible for the university's health insurance scheme, she applied for an exemption from the more costly national social security system. Unforeseen treatment

Expenses and reimbursement

If you need unexpected medical treatment in another EU country, presenting your European Health Insurance Card will simplify access to medical treatment in that country's statutory health care system which cannot wait until you return home - such as setting and plastering a broken leg.

If that medical treatment is free for local residents, you will not have to pay. If the country requires payment, you can either ask for reimbursement there, or put in a claim with your health insurer back home. Your expenses are reimbursed according to the rules of the country where the treatment was received.

If your hospital bill is an additional cost which is not normally reimbursable in the country of treatment, but would have been reimbursed by your health insurer back home, you can ask your health insurer for the additional reimbursement.

! The European Health Insurance Card does not cover repatriation, mountain rescue or stolen property - so take travel insurance to cover those risks.

Sample story

Take out additional insurance for travel risks

Sven, a Swedish national, went to France to go spelunking. During one of his trips, he was trapped in a cave and had to be freed by the french rescue services. Back home, he received a huge bill, which he had to pay in full, as rescues are not covered by the European Health Insurance Card.

Innovation 4: Listening to users' feedback

The screenshot shows a website interface for vehicle registration. At the top, there is a navigation bar with tabs for Travel, Work, Vehicles, Residence, Education, Health, Family, and Buy & Sell. The 'Vehicles' tab is selected. Below the navigation bar, the page is divided into sections. On the left, there is a sidebar with a 'Vehicles' icon and links for 'Driving licence', 'Insurance', 'Registration', 'National contacts', and 'FAQs'. The main content area is titled 'Registration' and 'Formalities and documents'. It contains a warning message: 'You can only register a car in the country where you normally live or have permanent residence. You cannot register your car in a country where you have a secondary residence or holiday house.' Below this, it states 'To register your car, you will have to submit the following documents:'. A modal window is open over this section, displaying the text: 'At the moment there are no EU rights for this situation. Help Europe make better laws by telling us what happened to you.' with a 'Submit' button. On the right side, there are several utility boxes: 'Still need help?', 'Frequently Asked Questions', and 'This could be you'. At the bottom, there are two orange circles highlighting feedback elements: one around a 'Give us your feedback' button with a pencil icon, and another around a 'Problem' section with a 'Solution' button and a 'Are you having problems...' form with a 'Submit' button.

Innovation 5: Promotion

- ❑ Will users find us?
 - Search Engine Optimization
 - Promotion campaign
- ❑ Promoted as 'European' rather than Commission
- ❑ Promotion of service rather than brand

II. Fast assistance and real solutions

- ❑ Your Europe is front office
- ❑ Relies on back office of many specialised services
 - Your Europe Advice
 - SOLVIT
 - European Consumer Centres
 - Enterprise Europe Network
 - etc....

II. Your Europe Advice

- ❑ Formerly Citizens Signpost Service recently renamed 'Your Europe Advice'
- ❑ Your Europe Advice provides...
 - free legal advice on EU single market rights
 - a fast reply in any EU language
- ❑ Deals with 10 000 cases per year

- ❑ SOLVIT criteria:
 - concrete cross-border problem
 - due to bad application of EU law
 - by public authorities
- ❑ SOLVIT centres in each country work together to find a solution in 10 weeks
- ❑ Commission assists the network and provides informal legal advice
- ❑ Deals with 1500 cases per year

II. European Consumer Centres

- European Consumer Centres...
 - give information and help find solutions to cross-border shopping problems
 - offer legal and practical advice
 - contact a company in another country
 - direct to dispute resolution schemes

- Deal with over 60 000 cases every year

II. Enterprise Europe Network

- ❑ Enterprise Europe Network...
 - helps small businesses make the most of the European market place
 - answers general business questions
 - gives information and advice on funding
 - keeps a record of problems faced by business

- ❑ Records around 1000 cases per year

III. Listen, learn and help Single Market progress

- ❑ Data is collected through assistance services
- ❑ This evidence should be analysed and used to inform future policy-making
- ❑ Traditionally, each service reports individually:
 - Report on professional qualifications
 - SOLVIT cases used by Commission services when preparing legislation

III. Listen, learn and help Single Market progress

- ❑ Aim is to coordinate feedback reporting and make it integrate it better into policy-making

- ❑ Ongoing 'feedback report' by external contractor on functioning of the single market:
 - evidence-based, with information from 5 services
 - broad remit: whole internal market
 - will make recommendations for future studies

III. Listen, learn and help Single Market progress

□ Next steps:

- Defining common actions in response to obstacles
- Generating a common discipline to secure delivery under the actions
- Presenting actions clearly: The 'Top 20' obstacles
- Further follow up over time

IV. Conclusions

- ❑ Feedback from assistance services has been and under-utilised source of evidence for policy work
- ❑ It is one source of evidence, but not the only one
- ❑ It should be complemented by other formal measures and informal tools (e.g. surveys) to determine the real obstacles
- ❑ How can feedback and other tools be applied to identify obstacles in the Baltic Sea Region?
